NOTICE

Kind Attn: TIAS Students

Subject: Value Added Course: Human Values and Ethics

Reference to the approval in the Departmental Academic Committee of Department of Information Communication & Technology on the subject cited above, the VAC is proposed to commence w.e.f 01/08/2025 for the students.

Introduction:

Value-added courses are designed to enhance students' skills, knowledge, and employability beyond their regular curriculum. The Value Added Course (VAC) on Human Values and Ethics is designed to strengthen the ethical, moral, and social foundations of learners by helping them develop a responsible, compassionate, and value-oriented outlook toward life and society. In the contemporary world, rapid technological advancement, increasing competition, and changing social structures have created new ethical challenges in personal, professional, and civic domains. This course provides a reflective space for students to understand the significance of values such as integrity, honesty, empathy, respect, cooperation, and social responsibility, and to relate them to real-life situations. Accordingly, the Department recommended introducing Human Values and Ethics Value Added Course (VAC) scheduled as below:

Details of the VAC are as follows:
