TIAS students understanding the key components of the workshop about women's health

The workshop began with an overview of basic gender concepts, including the difference between sex and gender, the spectrum of gender identities, and the impact of societal norms and expectations on individuals. Participants engaged in activities and discussions to identify and challenge common gender stereotypes prevalent in society. They reflected on how these stereotypes influence perceptions and behaviors.

The workshop highlighted the concept of privilege and its intersection with gender, race, class, sexuality, and other social identities. Students learned to recognize their privileges and understand how they intersect with systems of oppression.

The workshop provided practical strategies for advocating for gender equality and challenging discrimination. This included effective communication techniques, bystander intervention skills, and resources for further education and support.
