The Cultural Club of Tecnia Institute of Advanced Studies organized a powerful street play titled "The Common Man's Struggle Against Daily Injustices" at the campus amphitheatre. The play vividly portrayed the everyday challenges faced by the common man, from corruption, inequality, and bureaucratic inefficiency to economic hardships and social injustice.

The 15-member student team delivered a gripping performance, using the raw and direct medium of street theater to shed light on the struggles of the average citizen. Through hard-hitting dialogues, impactful expressions, and symbolic gestures, the play depicted how the common man is often trapped in a cycle of exploitation by the powerful, yet continues to fight for justice with resilience and hope.

The street play was well-received by the audience, which included faculty members, students, and local residents. It encouraged reflection on the injustices ingrained in society and emphasized the need for collective action to address them. The event concluded with a message of hope, urging people to unite and stand up against oppression.

The performance was lauded for its strong social message, and it left a profound impact on everyone present, sparking conversations about the need for change in society.
