The Gender Champion Club conducted an engaging awareness activity titled “Gender Walk Simulation” to sensitize students about gender-based privileges, challenges, and inequalities in society. The activity witnessed enthusiastic participation from students, who actively engaged in the simulation and subsequent discussions. Many participants expressed surprise at how quickly disparities became visible through simple movements. The physical distance created during the activity became a powerful metaphor for real-life inequality. A guided reflection session followed, where students shared their emotions, insights, and observations. The discussion created a safe space for dialogue on sensitive gender issues and encouraged students to question normalized social structures. Overall, the “Gender Walk Simulation” served as a powerful experiential learning activity that fostered empathy, deepened awareness of gender-based inequalities, and encouraged meaningful reflection among participants. The activity promoted open dialogue, challenged existing stereotypes, and reinforced the collective responsibility of students to contribute toward a more inclusive, equitable, and gender-sensitive campus environment
